

Terms of use

At GoodMovies, we are committed to protecting our organization's information and assets. We implement physical and digital security measures to ensure the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of our data, minimizing risks and preventing unauthorized access.

All employees and collaborators must comply with established regulations, including proper password use, device protection, and secure information handling. Sharing credentials or accessing systems without authorization is strictly prohibited.

We conduct regular audits and training sessions to enhance security and identify potential vulnerabilities. In case of security incidents, employees must report them immediately to the appropriate department for evaluation and resolution.